Description of the program:

Are you interested in how a drawing becomes a moving image, an everyday object a film actor or how a virtual character is born? As an animation designer, you will be able to work on complex projects in advertising, electronic media, motion pictures, digital post-production or to be a specialist in a specific field.

Animation experience, software knowledge, and prior training in visual arts or drawing are beneficial; however, their absence does not hinder your enrolment.

Career prospects

You will know the production procedures of animation productions.

You will be confident in using classic or digital techniques.

You will be able to find a job in animation, in graphic design, at film studios, as a game developer, or work for advertising agencies.

You will be able to work as a freelancer: in the creative industry, reliable animation experts are in high demand.
